

"Passion" is a woman from my "Dream Life Series," in the "Portrayals" body of work.

She lived in the 1700s, in England or Scotland. She was born of wealth and position; educated in botany and medicine. She fell in love with a man of lower standing. The passion flowers cover her...her heart beating like a sparrow in your palm...but the Lenten Rose lays upon her heart...what will we give up for love? What will we gain for passion? Where there is smoke, there will most certainly be fire...
