

Mary Wuest

Artist Statement

I use the vessel as a surrogate for the human body. Like the skin of the body, vessel walls contain and shield their contents from the outside world. The impact of pressures emanating from internal circumstances and external events are presented as deviations to the traditional profiles of the vessel form.